Egypt-Israel summit plans draw protest

Special for USA TODAY

CAIRO, Egypt — Riot police used tear gas and batons to disperse hundreds of demonstrators outside a synagogue Wednesday as representatives of Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak and Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres tried to set a summit date.

The summit, which could be held by July, is aimed at easing tensions created by Israel's 1982 invasion of Lebanon.

Mubarak recalled Egypt's ambassador to Israel after the invasion.
